

Lunch with a few people at Curlin Medical in 2007

Below are testimonies of customers, suppliers, and employees with whom I had the pleasure of working.

Knowing your were guiding Curlin's quality assurance program over the past years always gave me assurance that products would be of the highest quality and meet or exceed the customers' expectations. I cannot recall a single instance of a product out of box failure with all the hundreds of pumps I have installed in the past five years while selling the Curlin pumps.

It has been my pleasure to work with Mark Shal for the past ten years. Mark is an extremely capable leader who works with his suppliers to build strong relationships that are beneficial to all parties. I have watched Mark's production grow from a few hundred assemblies a year to several thousands a month. As the General Manager of a contract manufacturing company I work with over 50 different manufacturers and I can say with certainty that mark has been one of the best to work with. Problems are always solved quickly and communications are excellent. Mark makes his suppliers feel like part of the company. I highly recommend Mark Shal.

Dr. Mark Shal has been a great asset and great contributor to success of Curlin Medical. I truly appreciate all Mark's effort in last 11 years, taking us where we are now. He was always there and as they say in a small business, he was wearing many hats to get the job done. His skill and education helped us to move forward in a much faster pace. His experience and talent is well diversified but if I have to describe his niche, Quality Management and Supply Chain Management will be my judgment. He is definitely capable for running a business or participate making it grow.

I have known Mark Shal for four years. During this time I had the opportunity to work very closely with him in his different organizational roles at Curlin Medical.

Whether it be a role of providing leadership in Quality, Regulatory, Supply Chain Management, Volumetric statistical analysis, forecasting, or aggregate planning, Mark has always delivered his knowledge and goods on the basis of 'raising the bar' at all times.

Recently, I had the opportunity to work with Mark on some of my MBA projects concerning Organizational Behavior. Mark mentored me with insights on human behavior and taught me its expression through helping me writing papers on global cultures and future of robotics applications.

Truly Mark, it is a privilege and honor to know and working with you.
